This year the AFRO SCHOLAR is being managed by the Cooperative Research Network, and now permanently exists under the auspices of an independent Black Studies research organization. In addition, every one or two years, a campus-based academic program will host the research coordination function of the Newsletter, utilizing it as a research training lab for students and to work closely with local library staff to intensify their awareness of publications in the field.

We are pleased to announce that for the academic year 1985-86, the AFRO SCHOLAR will be hosted by the Afro-American Studies Program at the University of Mississippi, directed by Dr. Ronald Bailey.

Editor

We are quite pleased that the Afro-American Studies Program at the University of Mississippi will host the AFRO SCHOLAR this academic year. The South is an important and yet neglected resource for Black Studies, especially the presence of historically Black colleges, and formerly all white institutions who have played central roles in the old South and who have the potential to play leading and progressive roles in the new South. We will make the necessary efforts under our special conditions to uphold the national standard of Black Studies:

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE AND SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY!
