

We, the undersigned, call for a

National Assembly for Black Liberation

The Black liberation movement has entered a new phase based on mass actions all over the US. Many organized efforts are uniting forces. This means developing programs, policy statements and organized programs of study. This means reaching out broadly to create public opinion around key demands, slogans and actions. An even greater nationwide unity will bring together all of these forces and the many battlefronts now engaging our people. Then we can discuss and develop common agreements and a general program for Black liberation.

We, the undersigned, hereby state our support for organizing a National Assembly for Black Liberation to take place in Fall 2017.
